IDP in Insurance

For a futuristic and resilient technology solution

Intelligent Document Processing (IDP): Navigating the shifting insurance landscape

In the 'always connected' economy, it is important for an insurance organization to move towards an 'all-digital' transformation. However, the limitations of legacy systems, data silos, and complex operating environments are some of the challenges that pose as hindrance to a complete business transformation.

Ninestars' Intelligent Document Processing (IDP) solution helps insurance organizations drive automation throughout the customer journey by parsing through unstructured and semi-structured data to accelerate claims processing, aggregating customer and product information, addressing service requests for enrolment and underwriting, and providing an integrated view of fraudulent practices.

Where do we make a difference?

Contract and Claims Form Processing
